Original first edition of one of the most significant works relating to the motion of the earth and long-term climate change (Milankovitch cycles). Quite scarce, as the German bombing of Belgrade interrupted the printing process, and part of the book had to be finished on inferior paper.
The Serbian astrophysicist Milutin Milankovitch (1879-1958) is best known for this work, where he proposes his theory of ice ages, suggesting a relationship between the earth's long-term climate change and periodic changes in its orbit, now known as Milankovitch cycles.
