Marcello Malpighi (1628-94), Italian physician and anatomist, was professor of physic at Pisa, Bologna, and Messina, and was physician to Pope Innocent XII. Malpighi was the founder of histology and one of the greatest microscopists. In 1660 he was the first to see the capillary anastomosis between the arteries and the veins, thus helping the completion of Harvey's work on the circulation. He was a great embryologist; his name is perpetuated in "Malpighian bodies", "Malpighi's layer" of the epidermis, "Malpighi's (splenic) Corpuscles"» (Garrison & Morton, n. 66, p. 10).

Lost Land of the Dodo. An Ecological History of Mauritius, Réunion & Rodrigues; 464 p., num. coloured illustrations, 16 col. pls, hardbound (dust jacket). Very good copy.

"Uninhabited by humans, the Mascarene Islands of the Indian Ocean were once home to an extraordinary range of birds and reptiles - giant tortoises, parrots, skinks, gekoes, burrowing boas, flightless rails and herons, and, most famously, the dodo. But the discovery of the three isolated islands in the 1500's, and their colonization in the 1600's, led to dramatic ecological changes. The dodo became extinct on its home island of Mauritius within several decades, and over the next 150 years most native vertebrates suffered the same fate. This fascinating book provides the first full ecological history of the Mascarene Islands as well as the specific story of each extinct vertebrate, accompanied by Julian Hume's superb colour illustrations."

A very informative book on the Mascarene Island's fauna, but emphasis is on birds and the illustrious Dodo is extensively treated. An as new copy in a perfect dust jacket.
